TEXT 1*Languages

Travelling abroad presents an ideal opportunity to learn a foreign language. When you are among people who speak one language – which is a foreign language for you – you can quickly adapt to the situation and start using the foreign language. Then later you may be surprised to find that it is difficult to return to your native language. But this forgetfulness may actually be an adaptive strategy to better learn a second language.

TEXT 2*About Yourself

Would you believe when somebody said that personality traits have a big influence on your job? Personality traits are a combination of genes and upbringing, and they are relatively formed by the age of 12. By the age of 30, the broad characteristics are stable. Also, with regard to occupations, management tends to be more influenced by personality traits.

TEXT 3*Place of Living

A 'personality map' of Britain is prepared to show that regional trends are becoming stronger. It is clear that people with similar character traits move to the same areas. It is said that people are happiest where their personalities most closely resemble that of the other people in that area. Overall, more intelligent people with extrovert, open personalities move to cities while the more introverted and relaxed settle in villages or small towns.

TEXT 4*Climate Change

Weather has impact on our mood, on how we dress and on what we eat. 'Climate' however is not the same as the weather. It is the average pattern of weather for a particular region over a long period of time. Climate change is a global problem, and yet each one of us has the power to make a difference. Even small changes in our daily behaviour can affect the quality of our life and help save us money.

TEXT 5*Student Exchange

The things someone will learn during an exchange can never be taught in a classroom setting. Being an exchange student is about understanding. Knowledge may be power, but understanding leads to change. The life is enriched by opening up your mind and teaching you to understand and tolerate diversity. It is also about bringing a message of understanding, not only among youth, but also across generations.

TEXT 6*Travelling in other countries

When travelling in other countries, we expect to meet different people, see different sights and do different things. However, the most valuable learning that comes from travel is not that we are different, but that we share so many common needs and feelings. Spending time with friends from another culture will challenge stereotypes that may be held by both parties. Some of the greatest joys of travel arise from knowing that your preconceptions were wrong.
